-- The MAILING DATE of this communication appears on the cover sheet with the correspondence address --
Period for Reply

A SHORTENED STATUTORY PERIOD FOR REPLY IS SET TO EXPIRE 3 MONTH(S) OR THIRTY (30) DAYS, WHICHEVER IS LONGER, FROM THE MAILING DATE OF THIS COMMUNICATION.

- Extensions of time may be available under the provisions of 37 CFR 1.136(a). In no event, however, may a reply be timely filed after SIX (6) MONTHS from the mailing date of this communication.
- If NO period for reply is specified above, the maximum statutory period will apply and will expire SIX (6) MONTHS from the mailing date of this communication.
- Failure to reply within the set or extended period for reply will, by statute, cause the application to become ABANDONED (35 U.S.C. § 133). Any reply received by the Office later than three months after the mailing date of this communication, even if timely filed, may reduce any earned patent term adjustment. See 37 CFR 1.704(b).

Status

- 1) ☒ Responsive to communication(s) filed on 19 December 2008.
- 2a) ☐ This action is FINAL. 2b) ☒ This action is non-final.
- 3) ☐ Since this application is in condition for allowance except for formal matters, prosecution as to the merits is closed in accordance with the practice under Ex parte Quayle, 1935 C.D. 11, 453 O.G. 213.

DETAILED ACTION

1. This action is responsive to response received Dec. 19, 2008. Claims 15-23 are pending examination.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

2. Claims 15-23 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Bates et al., U.S. Patent No. 6,779,021 (referred to hereafter as Bates).

As to claim 15, Bates teaches a method for restoring electronic mail messages to a mail server, the method comprising:

determining that an electronic mail message addressed to a particular user is resident at a mail server (see col. 6 lines 26-54);

receiving the electronic mail message at a mail client from the mail server pursuant to an electronic mail downloading procedure that entails deleting the electronic mail message from the mail server (see col. 6 lines 26-54);

receiving a request to restore the electronic mail message on the mail server following a completion of the electronic mail downloading procedure (see col. 11 lines 33-col. 13 lines 3, spam emails downloaded to client are deleted and moved to trash folders, if client determines the emails are not SPAM, emails are restored); and restoring the electronic mail message as though it had not been downloaded from the mail server in response to receiving the request (see col. 11 lines 33-col. 13 lines 3).

As to claim 16, Bates teaches the method of claim 15, further comprising:
determining whether the electronic mail message is an appropriate candidate for restoration prior to restoring the electronic mail message (see col. 11 lines 33-col. 13 lines 3).

As to claim 17, Bates teaches the method of claim 15, wherein restoring the electronic mail message comprises:

creating a temporary message file that includes a re-written header and an original message body corresponding to the electronic mail message, wherein the re-written header indicates that the message is being sent from the original sender of the electronic mail message and to the particular user; and transmitting the temporary message file to the mail server (see col. 8 lines 48-61, the email with the same content is transmitted back to the server).

As to claim 18, Bates teaches a computer program product for restoring electronic mail messages to a mail server, the computer program product stored on a computer readable medium and adapted to perform operations comprising:

receiving the electronic mail message at a mail client from the mail server pursuant to an electronic mail downloading procedure that entails deleting the electronic mail message from the mail server(see col. 11 lines 33-col. 13 lines 3);

receiving a request to restore the electronic mail message on the mail server following a completion of the electronic mail downloading procedure (see col. 11 lines 33-col. 13 lines 3); and

restoring the electronic mail message as though it had not been downloaded from the mail server in response to receiving the request (see col. 11 lines 33-col. 13 lines 3).

As to claim 19, Bates teaches the computer program product of claim 18, wherein the operations further comprise:

determining whether the electronic mail message is an appropriate candidate for restoration prior to restoring the electronic mail message (see col. 11 lines 33-col. 13 lines 3).

As to claim 20, Bates teaches the computer program product of claim 18, wherein restoring the electronic mail message comprises:

creating a temporary message file that includes a re-written header and an original message body corresponding to the electronic mail message, wherein the re-written header indicates that the message is being sent from the original sender of the electronic mail message and to the particular user; and transmitting the temporary message file to the mail server (see col. 8 lines 48-61, the email with the same content is transmitted back to the server).

As to claim 21, Bates teaches a system for restoring electronic mail messages to a mail server, the system comprising:

a e-mail management module, which determines that an electronic mail message addressed to a particular user is resident at a mail server (see col. 6 lines 63-col. 7 lines 60, an email is received at the server addressed to a client); an e-mail restoration module, in communication with the e-mail management module, which receives a request to restore the electronic mail message on the mail server following a completion of the electronic mail downloading procedure (see col. 8 lines 8 lines 40-47, the original message is sent back to the server in response to a forward request); and restores the electronic mail message as though it had not been downloaded from the mail server in response to receiving the request (see col. 8 lines 45-55, the copy of the received email is sent to the server).

As to claim 22, Bates teaches the system of claim 21, wherein the e-mail restoration manager determines whether the electronic mail message is an appropriate candidate for restoration prior to restoring the electronic mail message (see col. 11 lines 33-col. 13 lines 3).

As to claim 23, Bates teaches the system of claim 21, wherein the e-mail restoration manager restores the electronic mail message by creating a temporary message file that includes a re-written header and an original message body corresponding to the electronic mail message, wherein the re-written header indicates that the message is being sent from the original sender of the electronic mail message and to the particular user, and transmitting the temporary message file to the mail server (see col. 11 lines 33-col. 13 lines 3).

Response to Arguments

3. Applicant's arguments have been fully considered but are moot in view of the new grounds of rejection.
4. Any inquiry concerning this communication or earlier communications from the examiner should be directed to HUSSEIN A. EL CHANTI whose telephone number is (571)272-3999. The examiner can normally be reached on Mon-Fri 8:30-5:00.

If attempts to reach the examiner by telephone are unsuccessful, the examiner's supervisor, Ario Etienne can be reached on (571)272-4001. The fax phone number for the organization where this application or proceeding is assigned is 571-273-8300.
